LR. TALMAGE CONTINUES HIS SERIES OF EVANGELISTIC SERMONS.

The Great Array of Cond Things an Average Congregation Can Boast Of, Yet

BROOKLYN, Feb. 1.—The deep religious feeling manifested in Dr. Taimage's congregations since his recent arousing "Appeal to Outsiders" has apparently encouraged him to continue discourse of the same gospel type, both at the morning service in the Academy of Music in this city, and at The ouristian Herald service at night in the New York Academy of Music. Ilis text was taken from Mark x. 21: "One thing thou lackest.'

The young man of the text was a day and always. splendid nature. Wefall in love with him at the first glance. He was amiable and frank and earnest and educated and refined and respectable and moral, and yet he was not a Christian. And so Christ addresses him in the words that I have read to you, "One thing thou lackest." I suppose that that text was no more appropriate to the young man of whom I have spoken than it is appropriate to a great multitude of people in this audience. There are many things in which you are not lacking. For instance, you are not tacking in a good home. It is perhaps no more than an hour ago that you closed the door, returning to see whether it was well fastened, of one of the best homes in this city. The younger children of the house already asleeper the older ones, hearing your returning footsteps, will rush to the door to mee you. And in these winter evenings the children at the stand with their icsthe life ning the needle and eading the book or the paper, you feel that you have a good home. Neither are you lacking in the refinements and courtesies of lite. You understand the polite phraseology of inhave on appropriate apparel. I shall wear no better dress at the wedding than when I come to the marriage of the king's son. If I am well clothed on other occasions I will be so in a religious audience. However reckless I may be about my personal appearance at other times, when I come into a consecrated assemblage I shall have on the best dress I have. We all understand the proprieties of every day life and the proprieties of Sabbath life. Neither are you lacking in worldly success. You have not made as much money as you would like to make, but you have an income. While others are false when they say they have no income, or are making no money, you have never told that falsenood. have had a livelihood, or you have fallen upon old resources, which is just the same thing, for God is just as good to us when he takes care of us by a sur-plus of the past as by present success. While there are thousands of men with hunger tearing at the throat with the strength of a tiger's paw, not one of you is hungry. Neither are you lack-ing in pleasant friendship. You have real good friends. If the scarlet fever should come to-night to your house you know very well who would come in and sit up with the sick one; or, if death should come, you know who would come in and take your hand tight in theirs with that peculiar grip which means "I'll stand by you," and, after the life has fled from the loved gone to Greenwood they would stay in the house and put aside the garments and the playthings that might bring to your mind too severely your great loss. Friends? You all have friends.

Neither are you lacking in your admiration of the Christian religion. There is nothing that makes you so angry as to have a man malign Christ. You get red in the face, and you say, "Sir, I want you ro understand that though I am not myself a Christian, I don't like such things said as that in my store," and the man goes off, giving you a parting salutation, but you hardly answer him. You are provoked be-yond all bounds. Many of you have given more to the cause of Christ than ing at the altar of Christ, taking the yows of the Christian.

It might be a little hard on you, and rounding, I find a thousand, things

I could call upon the aged men in this house to give testimony. There are aged men here who tried the world, and they tried religion, and they are willing to testify on our side. It was in a praying circle and said: "Brethren, I lost my son just as he graduated from college, and it broke my heart; but I am glad now be is gone. He is at rest, escaped from all sorrow and all trouble. And then, in 1857, I lost all my property, and you see I am getting old, and it is rather hard upon me; but I am sure God will not let me suffer. He has not taken care of me for seventy-five years now to let me Again, you lack the element of personal safety. Where are those people who associated with you twenty years ago? Defied the Lyncher .. NEW URLEANS, Feb. 5.-The Times-Democrat's Shreveport special says: Homer, the parish seat of Claiborne has been the scene of intense excitement for the past two days. On Saturday night a mob battered a hole in the jail and six men went through the passage to kill Link Waggoner, the desperado recently placed there for safe keeping. As soon as Link saw the six men were after him he began firing on them, having in his posession two six-shooters. He shot two of the men in the arms, defied the rest and held them at bay.

It seems that Waggoner had not been his legs. P. P. P. (Prickly Ash, Poke placed in a cell, and did his shooting from the corridor, dodging into different apartments as he did so. Resolution of Consure Withdraws. HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 30.-A resolution was offered to-day in the House, condemning Senator Cameron's course on the silver question and the election bill, and calling on him to adhere closely to his party and party principles, or else resign from the United States Senate. Immediately after the reading of the resolution, a motion was made and seconded to lay it upon the table. The Speaker, however, decided that, as the resolution had not been read the second time, it was not before the House. On the question of reading the resolution the second time it was decided in the majority that Representative Thompson, who had offered it, be allowed to withdraw it.
